This project evaluated the effectiveness of implementing Safer Bars, a bar staff bystander training to reduce the incidence of alcohol-related sexual violence in alcohol serving establishments. Despite Covid, all aims were met and the recruitment level exceeded the predicted enrollment. Three papers have been published on the clinical trials design protocol, the summary of steps to implementation, and the process outcomes. The paper reporting impact outcomes is in preparation with significant findings to report. Involved 5 students.

We respectfully acknowledge the University of Arizona is on the land and territories of Indigenous peoples. Today, Arizona is home to 22 federally recognized tribes, with Tucson being home to the O'odham and the Yaqui. Committed to diversity and inclusion, the University strives to build sustainable relationships with sovereign Native Nations and Indigenous communities through education offerings, partnerships, and community service.
