Maternal and Child Health in Urban Settings
August 6 - 11, 2017

CPH 597A: This course works directly with organizations serving marginalized and vulnerable populations in the greater Tucson community. The focus of the 2017 course is understanding how structural factors determine what is possible in terms of health. We will engage with community partners using strength-based approaches to address the social determinants of health in vulnerable populations in the Tucson community. We will gain an understanding of how community partners improve fair and equitable opportunities for Tucson’s families and children to live decent, healthy, and flourishing lives.

Whether you have lived in Tucson all your life or are newly transplanted, this course will immerse you in Pima County agencies that serve the public health needs of children and families.

Course Faculty:  Cynthia Thomson, PhD, RD; Jennifer Peters; Bryna Koch, MPH

SERVICE LEARNING

is a teaching and learning strategy that integrates meaningful community service with instruction and reflection to enrich the learning experience, teach civic responsibility, and strengthen communities.

Space is limited to 15 students; sign up SOON!

Please contact course instructor for registration approval: petersjs@email.arizona.edu